Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : Mr. A. H. Belmont

DATE: April 25, 1958

FROM : Mr. R. R. Rodc

SUBJECT: COOPERATION WITH THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE

On April 24, 1958, Mr. [redacted] Office of Security, Department of State, advised Liaison that State has received a request from the Cuban Government to alert police departments in cities where Cuban Embassy and Consular officials are located to furnish police protection to those Cuban officials when and if necessary due to the tense political situation existing in Cuba. Mr. [redacted] advised that State is handling this matter throughout the United States and inasmuch as State has no representative in Puerto Rico, he asked if the FBI could, as a cooperative measure, alert the necessary police in Puerto Rico to this matter. Mr. [redacted] advised that the only Cuban official in Puerto Rico is Francisco Vilarino Martinez, an honorary consular agent located at Ponce.

RECOMMENDATION:

If you approve, the attached airtel will be sent to San Juan instructing them to alert the appropriate police in Puerto Rico to this matter and pointing out that the FBI has no interest in this situation other than to pass on the desired request. Liaison will then advise Mr. [ ] at State that his request has been handled.

SUBJECT: FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

DATE: May 28, 1958

ReBulet 5-7-56 to LA, Paris, re "ESPIONAGE AND FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE MATTERS" (Bufile 66-6200-65), in accordance with which the following is submitted:

During the past six months, the political fortunes of President FULGENCIO BATISTA y ZALDIVAR have waned and waxed. In December, the insurrection led by FIDEL CASTRO RUZ was particularly active only in the Eastern end of the Island, but Constitutional guarantees continued to be suspended throughout the country and this suspension was renewed on 12-13-57 for another 45 days, and was terminated on 1-27-58.

Terrorism increased during the latter part of January and first of February, with arson, bombings and scattered assassinations a daily routine. Public apprehension began to soar during the middle of February and on 2-23-58 the kidnapping of the famous Argentine race driver just before the tragedy of the Cuban Gran Prix, added to the public frustration which blanketed the domestic political picture.

The audacity of the rebels was again shown by the burning of the day's collection of checks in the Havana clearing house on 2-26-58.

At this point the Church stepped forward and asked for peace and national unity. A cabinet change followed, but did not follow the lines of national unity. Politicians were changed for technicians and a group best described as a "caretaker" cabinet was established.

On 3-12-58, Constitutional guarantees were again suspended while terrorism increased. Elections were postponed from June 1st to November 3rd by action of the Congress on 3-25, followed by the giving of sweeping powers to the President by Congress declaring a National Emergency on 3-28-58.

BATISTA told the Ambassador he did not understand why so many people wanted to be President of Cuba and that he, himself, had never desired to be President. Informed Embassy sources agree that all BATISTA has wanted was to be the power directing the country but not hold the actual office of President. They state that in 1952 when BATISTA took over the control of Cuba, he offered the Presidency to two individuals who refused the office.

Additional copies of this letter are being furnished for forwarding to the Miami Office for its information.

The Bureau will be kept informed.

This is being furnished for the information of the Bureau. It is requested that it not be revealed outside the Bureau.

As of possible interest to the Bureau, the following remarks were made by Cuban President FULGENCIO BATISTA to the U. S. Ambassador on the evening of June 2, 1958, as reported by the Ambassador at his staff meeting:

BATISTA stated that he intended to go through with elections on November 3, 1958, but it was the Ambassador's impression that BATISTA felt that he should approach the elections calmly and that perhaps he had made a mistake previously in acting too hurriedly to combat the opposition activities of the July 26 Movement under FIDEL CASTRO. The Ambassador's interest in the interview was to ascertain the President's plans for establishing a normal situation in the country under which free elections could be carried out. BATISTA stated that a normal situation would exist, the elections would be free elections, and he was planning to invite observers, possibly from the United Nations and/or the World Press, to be present in Cuba at election time.

In discussing the general political campaign picture, BATISTA referred to GRAU SAN MARTIN as a very smart, astute politician, but BATISTA said GRAU SAN MARTIN is in failing health, is receiving blood transfusions, and cannot be expected to live much longer. BATISTA added that his opposition still includes CARLOS PRIO SOCARRAS who, BATISTA said, is by no means as smart a man as GRAU SAN MARTIN. BATISTA mentioned MARQUES STERLING as another candidate, stating that STERLING had advocated elections and for that reason two attempts had been made on his life by members of FIDEL CASTRO's movement, because BATISTA said, FIDEL CASTRO does not want elections since he knows that he cannot win control of Cuba through elections.

It was then that CASTRO threatened an all-out offensive against the regime to begin on 4-5-58, including a general strike on 4-9, which failed. After this crisis, the political fever dropped and conditions in all parts of Cuba, outside of Oriente Province, began to return to normal. Nevertheless, on 4-25-58, the suspension of Constitutional guarantees was extended.

BATISTA on 5-7-58 invited the rebels to surrender. The situation appeared definitely under control. Congress on 5-15-58 ratified the decrees which the President had issued during the emergency.

After one month of quiet in the capital, two bombs were exploded in Havana on 5-17-58, but by the end of that month Havana is quiet, public order is restored throughout the island except for the disturbed conditions in the Oriente region, Constitutional guarantees remain suspended, and the election campaigns have started.

Except for the Communists, the anti-Batista political groups do not appear to be anti-United States and pro-Communist.

An additional letter will be submitted to reach the Bureau by December 1, 1958.

On July 17, 1958, Mrs. [redacted] aka [redacted] advised

SA MELTON L. ALEXANDER that Dr. [redacted] a physician at the University Hospital, Birmingham, Alabama, for the past two years, has rented an apartment from her. She advised that on July 14, 1958, he departed and vacated the apartment suddenly and without notice. She also advised that Dr. [redacted] reportedly had meetings with other young men at which lookouts were posted and he reportedly is the nephew of someone high in the Cuban Government. She advised he paid rent by checks drawn on the Exchange-Security Bank, Birmingham.

On July 26, 1958, [redacted] salesman, Radio Department, Sears-Roebuck Company, Birmingham, advised Night Clerk [redacted] that a group of about six or seven young Cubans, only one of whom was known to him, by the name of [redacted] came to Birmingham from Cuba about a year ago and have attended high school and college in Birmingham. He stated they reside at [redacted] residence at [redacted]

He advised he became acquainted with them in the neighborhood and through selling them a short-wave radio set. [redacted] stated he thought everything was going well between him and the Cubans until during

Set forth hereinafter are the contents of a communication (~~confidential~~) received here, which may be of interest to the Bureau and the Legat, Havana.

"At a dinner given by Ambassador and Mrs. Smith at the Residence, I was approached by the Brazilian Ambassador who indicated that he wished to exchange views on the domestic political situation. (S) (U)

"Ambassador Da Cunha stated he was growing increasingly concerned over the trend of events during the past few weeks in Cuba. The reports which he had from Oriente indicated that the Army was taking heavy losses. As a result morals among the troops was growing worse, which in turn was reflected in increasing restiveness among the officers. The detention of General SOSA de Quesada he was inclined to attribute to this, although he had heard other explanations such as Quesada's attitude on the Ventura case. I stated that the reports which we have in general coincide with his, indicating, however, that we had little which could be regarded as confirmed information. (S) (U)

"The Brazilian Ambassador also mentioned the increase in police brutality in Habana, particularly during the past month. His sources he regarded as good. He stated that in his judgment this situation had reached such a point that he thought the Diplomatic Corps should make some type of representation to the Government. He inquired whether we were aware of what was going on and what Ambassador Smith would think of the Diplomatic Corps saying something to the Minister of State.

as was done after the Haitian Embassy affair in 1956. I told him that we had received many reports of police brutality in recent weeks. As in the case of the reports from Oriente, it was difficult to verify them. As to Ambassador Smith's attitude re his idea, I suggested that he might wish to speak directly to him about it. Ambassador Da Cunha then stated that he would talk to the Papal Nuncio first to see what his reaction was. (S) (U)

"On the outlook for a solution to the Cuban situation, the Brazilian Ambassador was very pessimistic. From a military standpoint, he stated, there was a stalemate between the Army and the revolutionary opposition which could go on for some time. In the meantime the senseless bloodshed would continue and probably get worse. The tragedy is, he went on, that there is no ready solution. The elections, if held, would solve nothing. The only other alternative would be a public uprising sparked by the revolutionary opposition or a military coup by responsible officers who were tired with the existing state of affairs. Of the two he hoped that it would be the latter and that it would come soon. He was fearful of the chaos which would follow the overthrow of the regime, and thought that a strong military junta offered the best hope for controlling mob action. (S) (U)

"I indicated to the Ambassador that in general I agreed with his analysis of the situation and shared his preoccupation over what might happen if there were not a strong hand to control things if and when the Batista regime was overthrown. (S) (U)

"In closing he indicated that he hoped the United States would use its preponderant influence in Cuba to encourage a solution. I stated that as much as this might appear desirable, we had an obligation not to intervene in the domestic affairs of another American Republic and that our policy toward Cuba was oriented by this principle. Ambassador Da Cunha stated that there eventually comes a time when for the sake of humanity a nation must not adhere too rigidly to legal concepts. (S) (U)

FROM : Legal Attache, Havana (109-12) 112276

SUBJECT: CUBAN POLITICAL ACTIVITIES
FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTER - CUBA

DATE: September 30, 1958

As of possible interest to the Bureau, Ambassador EARL E. T. SMITH furnished the following information concerning an interview which he had with Cuban President FULGENCIO BATISTA. The Ambassador had his interview with President BATISTA on September 20. BATISTA advised that elections would be held as scheduled in Cuba on November 3, 1958, and he estimated that approximately 60 per cent of the registered voters would take part in these elections. It is to be noted that FIDEL CASTRO has publicly announced that these elections would not be held, and it is expected that he will create incidents to disrupt this electoral process. 760 (U)

UNCLASSIFIED EXCEPT WHERE SHOWN OTHERWISE

Concerning recent reported advances by rebel columns from Oriente Province into the neighboring provinces of Camaguey and Las Villas, BATISTA denied that these advances were taking place. It is to be noted that shortly after this interview which the Ambassador had, General TABERNILLA, Head of the Armed Forces, also denied that the rebels had infiltrated into Las Villas and Camaguey Provinces. However, it is known, from numerous reliable sources, that rebel columns have advanced into these provinces. BATISTA claimed that the rebel movement was Communist-dominated and stated he would forward to the U. S. Ambassador documents which would prove this statement. The Ambassador did receive from the Cuban Army Military Intelligence Service Communist documents which were reportedly found in the possession of a rebel column. (Representatives of this office had previously seen these documents. These documents were definitely of a Communist nature, but there was no proof that they had actually been found in the possession of rebel columns.) 760 (U)

Concerning attempts made by FIDEL CASTRO to exact tribute from plantation owners operating in territory controlled by his forces, the President of Cuba, BATISTA, stated he would 760

double the taxes of any concern which he found was paying such tribute to CASTRO. (It is common knowledge that such tribute is being paid by concerns in territory dominated by CASTRO, and reliable sources have stated that CASTRO is now imposing a 15 per cent tax on the products of coffee and sugar plantations operating in Oriente Province.)(S) (U)

BATISTA advised that he had no intention of departing from Cuba after the elections and indicated he felt that his presence was necessary in Cuba after such elections in order to be a tranquilizing force (S) (U)

The main purpose of the interview on BATISTA's part was an attempt to convince U. S. authorities that he needed sufficient arms from the United States in order to police the country. The Ambassador explained to BATISTA that no arms would be forthcoming from the United States as long as hostilities existed in Cuba (S) (U)

The Ambassador pointed out that the above information was classified "~~SECRET.~~"

It is requested that the above information not be revealed outside the Bureau.

A detailed picture of present political activities in Cuba will be submitted to the Bureau by October 15, 1958.
